INLAND PACIFIC BALLET ADDS PERFORMANCE TO SOLD OUT FINAL WEEKEND OF THE NUTCRACKER

Inland Pacific Ballet has added a Friday evening performance to the final weekend of its holiday spectacular, The Nutcracker, at the Lewis Family Playhouse in Rancho Cucamonga. Three weekend performances are sold out, but tickets are available for the recently added 7:00 p.m. performance on Friday, Dec. 20 at TheBestNutcracker.com or by calling the box office at (909) 477-2752.

“It was an exciting run at Bridges Auditorium and we definitely saw large audiences for the three performances with the Pomona College Orchestra,” says Victoria Koenig, Artistic Director for the 19 year old professional ballet company. “Nearly 14,000 persons will see IPB’s The Nutcracker this year, including 4,300 school children at our educational outreach shows.”

More than 80 dancers will fill the stage this weekend at the Lewis Family Playhouse for the final four performances of The Nutcracker. The story features a young girl named Clara who receives a Nutcracker doll as a gift, and then dreams of a magical journey. IPB’s holiday classic has become an annual event for hundreds of families from throughout southern California..

Inland Pacific Ballet is supported by The Ahmanson Foundation, The James Irvine Foundation, the National Endowment for the Arts, the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors through the Los Angeles County Arts Commission, Covina Hills Sports Medicine, The Doubletree by Hilton Claremont, Integrated Systems, Inc., Target, The Haskell Fund, The Victor Elmaleh Foundation, Hank and Jean Voznick, and the Lux-Archer Family.
